Leaking natural gas inside buildings or outside can create a safety hazard. If you suspect a natural gas leak, or detect a smell like rotten eggs, leave the building or the area immediately and, from a safe place, call BGE. Natural gas can even enter buildings that don't use natural gas, passing through walls and openings from the outside. Your call for emergency service will be answered 24 hours a day. To learn more go to BGE.COM
